Succession Planning E-tips

Tips for creating a succession plan for your farm or ranch business

Creating a plan to shape the future ownership of your family farm or ranch business, whether that is transferring a viable business to the next generation or determining how to divide farm/ranch assets, is a big task.

The NDSU Extension Service is offering succession planning E-tips delivered to your email each week. Farm and ranch families will find them helpful in getting started on a plan, opening the lines of communication with family and working with professionals in designing a plan that fits their unique operation.

To subscribe to the Succession Planning E-tips, just follow this link: <http://bit.ly/DYSPTips>. It's quick and easy. For more information, contact Burke County NDSU Extension Service office at 377-2927 or email me at dan.folske@ndsu.edu

Succession Planning: Who Should Attend?

Succession Planning is for families interested in shaping the future ownership of the family farm or ranch – the family legacy – whether that is transferring a viable business to the next generation or determining how to divide farm/ranch assets. Even if you have attended other transition, estate or succession planning classes, consider attending one of the “Design Your Own Succession Plan” programs being offered by the NDSU Extension Service throughout North Dakota to get a start on your succession plan.
